ARMISTICE SEASON OBSERVANCES

Memorial Service to Be Held in Town Hall Sunday Evening—School Children to Hold Exercises Monday Morning—Armistice Ball for Benefit of Red Cross

An elaborate observance of the Armistice season, which is especially significant this year marking as it does the end of the decade since the first Armistice day, has been planned by Andover Post 8, American Legion, and it is hoped that a large number of the townspeople will show their interest by being present at the various events.

The usual service will be held on Sunday evening in the Town hall at half past seven o'clock. Rev. Frank R. Shipman, Rev. Charles A. Branton, Rev. Charles W. Henry, Rev. C. Norman Bartlett, Rev. Alfred C. Church, and Rev. Newman Matthews have been invited to be present and assist at the service. James Mullen of Charlestown, prominent in Legion activities will be the principal speaker. Dr. Claude M. Fuess will present the cause of the Red Cross and there will be music by the Square and Compass Glee club.

Monday morning exercises will be held in the Town hall beginning at ten o'clock and ending with the sounding of taps at eleven. There will be recitations including "The Song of a New World" by Etta Larkin, "The Dead to the Living" by Donald Dumont. There will be a speaker and music by the Punchard Girls' Glee club.

It is requested that all school children be present at the exercises to be held Monday morning.

The annual concert and ball to be held under the auspices of the American Legion in celebration of Armistice Day will take place in the Town hall on Monday evening, November 12th. Roland Russell's Ramblers, an orchestra well and favorably known by local people will furnish the music. A short entertainment will precede the dancing and the following numbers presented by local artists will contribute to the evenings pleasure:

"God send you back to me", sung by Miss Roxie Smith; "The deathless Army", sung by George Leacock; Memories of France, sung by Mrs. Mary Harris; Girl of My Dreams, sung by Arthur Mitchell; Lorraine, sung by George Knipe and a specialty by Chris Murphy.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE

One of America's greatest stage favorites, the inimitable William Hodge will return to the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, for a limited engagement of three weeks commencing Monday Evening, Nov. 12, in his greatest comedy success "Straight Thru the Door."

Though best described as a smart mystery comedy, "Straight Thru the Door," possesses all of the whimsical humor and quaintness that have characterized Mr. Hodge's offerings in the past. The famous star again finds full scope for his great talents in the stellar role of "Gene Thomas," a noted actor, who is endeavoring to complete a new home during his summer vacation.

While struggling with painters, carpenters and plumbers, to prevent his beautifully conceived ideas from developing into frightful nightmares, he is suddenly forced to ward off the advances of a vampish female interior decorator. Then upon his circumspect head not only do domestic complications threaten, but an unexpected and mysterious murder occurs to further entangle him in an already tense situation. However, despite the suspense and excitement that follows, there is the saving grace of humor, and the solution of the mystery soon straightens out the love entanglements which have endangered the happiness of the new home.

Owing to the length of Mr. Hodge's engagements in Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago last season the New York showing of "Straight Thru the Door" was postponed until this year and the return Boston engagement is directly following Mr. Hodge's Broadway appearance.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE

Boston is going to see "The Ladder," the play that has been running in New York for the past two years with varying success. The announcement reads that United Actors, Inc., present the drama, but it is a matter of common knowledge that the play has been sponsored by Edgar B. Davis, wealthy oil man formerly of Brockton. Mr. Davis is returning on the Mauretania from Europe and will doubtless be in Boston for the opening Monday night at the Boston Opera House.

Following the policy of doing things in an unusual way theatrically, "The Ladder" is to be presented to Boston theatregoers at popular prices. At the Cort Theatre where "The Ladder" is now playing in New York, the seats are sold at the prevailing New York scale of $3. In Boston the best seats will be sold for $1. with the house scaled down as low as twenty-five cents. Another most unusual feature of "The Ladder's" engagement will be that money will be refunded if any patron is dissatisfied with the play. This is considered a safe and sane policy by the management as it has been followed in New York with an average of only two persons a month demanding their money back. The backer has supreme faith in his play as a fine entertainment and has always planned for a Boston engagement to follow when the New York theatre lease was completed.

"The Ladder" is styled a "drama with music." The music is only incidental to the story. The play is in three acts, divided into nine scenes. The first and last acts are of the present day, the second act representing three widely separated periods of history. The play has been magnificently mounted. The settings and costumes are by Robert Edmund Jones. The cast that has appeared in New York will be seen in Boston and includes Raymond Jarno, Minnie Milne, Lucille Wall, Julius McVicker, Stewart Hutchison, Henry Mortimer, William Mattison, Margaret Schackelford, Louis Cruger, Leonard Carey, Louise De Roche. The play has been directed by Henry Herbert, famous for many Shakespearian productions.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE

Erich von Stroheim has returned to the screen! And he has done it in a fashion which increases the interest in what is undoubtedly one of the most fascinating personalities of filmdom. In "The Wedding March" now playing at the Metropolitan Theatre, Von Stroheim heads a remarkable cast of screen favorites in a production which he also directed, and which presents a moving story of Vienna in the days before the World War.

There is much that is spectucular in "The Wedding March", much that charms the eye with a display of regal magnificence or beauty of an almost ethereal quality—but there is also a great deal that affects the spectator solely through the medium of superior acting.

The Corpus Christi procession before the cathedral in Vienna, photographed by the technicolor process, shows some of the most gorgeous scenes ever brought to the screen.

As an actor, Von Stroheim matches his excellence as a director, and is supported by Zazu Pitts, undoubtedly one of the leading emotional actresses in motion pictures and by Fay Wray, the director's "find", a pretty miss who acquits herself in admirable fashion. Others in the cast include, George Fawcett, Maude George, Hughie Mack, Mathew Betz, Dale Fuller, and Cesare Gravina.

John Murray Anderson again presents to the stage a scintillating Publix revue in which you will see some of the brightest luminaries in the realm of the theatre, including Dave Rubinoff, celebrated violinist, Evans and Perez, the Darling Twins, Lyndon and Farman, and the Gamby Hale Girls. Gene Rodemich and the happy-go-lucky Publix Playboys will present the musical high lights of this delightful stage presentation. Other programme features include a Fox Movietone novelty and the Paramount News Weekly.

The week of November 16th, Victor McLaglen and Lois Moran will come to the Metropolitan screen in their latest Fox release, "The River Pirate"—a romance of drama and adventure. On the stage, the world-famed and talented Singers Midgets will be seen, together with a host of other features.

REPERTORY THEATRE

At the Repertory Theatre of Boston the hit of the season, "S. S. Incorporated" will continue into the fifth week of its success. "S. S. Incorporated" is a play that appeals to all people whether they are lovers of thrillers mystery or drama with a touch of comedy, it has that something that makes a play a success; added to that the superb acting, staging and lighting effects and you have a combination that "can't be beat". The people of Boston and Greater Boston are proving that this is true as they nightly fill the Theatre and the rounds of applause testify to the play's success. "S. S. Incorporated" is a distinct novelty to Boston, being the first real modernistic play ever set upon the stage here. Robert Noble, who plays the part of John Spafford, head of "S. S. Incorporated," has scored a personal triumph in this play. Mr. Noble will be remembered by the theatregoers as he has played leads in several marked successes and was with Mr. Jewett's Company in 1920. The entire cast give unusually fine performances, one critic says: "It was extraordinary in the originality of the material used, extraordinary in the skilled and flawless acting afforded it."

"To deal first with the material. 'S. S. Incorporated' sets forth the theme that those who have not yet learned to live do not deserve to die. It turns a bitter, comprehensive searchlight upon the speed and lawlessness of the present age. Not, however, in the hackneyed fashion of a problem play, or in a series of preachments in thinly veiled dialogue. Rather as a fullblooded living drama. There is love, and hate and romance in this curiously beautiful play." George Brinton Beal in the Boston Post.

"S. S. Incorporated" sets a record for the length of run of plays at the Repertory Theatre of Boston, and is being kept on the stage because of the positive demand for it by the people.

Punchard 2—Exeter 0

For the sixth consecutive year a Punchard high school football team sent its rival Exeter high down to defeat. Last Saturday at Exeter a heavier and hitherto undefeated Exeter high team dropped a 2 to 0, game to Coach Lovely's boys. Punchard, showing a vast improvement in all departments of its games this season, ran rough-shod over the New Hampshire schoolboys and the small score does not indicate the brilliant attack displayed by the Orange and Black eleven

Little Willie Greene, entering the contest at the start at right end, in place of the veteran Elwin Russell, the latter being out until near the end due to injuries, was responsible for the two-point victory of the Punchard team. It was he who threw Kucharski, brilliant Exeter halfback, behind his own goal line in the third period to give the Andover team the margin of victory.

This opportunity came shortly after the start of the second half when Batchellor kicked from his own 46-yard line over the Exeter goal line. The ball was then automatically given the Blue and White on its own 20-yard line. On the first play, with Kucharski back in kicking formation, L. Gaiero, Exeter center made a bad pass that rolled behind the goal line. Kucharski in endeavoring to run it out, was tackled by Greene just a foot the other side of the final chalk mark and a victory was hung up by the Lovely-coached eleven.

For three-quarters of the game, the home team was on the defensive as Punchard, with her backfield running mad on off-tackle and center smashes, broke the Exeter forward line time after time for appreciable gains. Six times during the afternoon Punchard was within the shadow of the Exeter goal line, only to lose the ball in some manner or other.

After receiving the kick-off the Punchard lads started an offensive that moved down the opposition for a march of 65 yards when Forsythe went through the right side of the Exeter line for a touchdown. However, the play did not count, as a Punchard player was detected offside and the touchdown nullified. This gave Punchard a penalty, and from then on, they were unable to make up the distance as the Exeter line held them and took the ball on downs on its own three-yard line.

Before the close of the first period Punchard brought the ball up to Exeter's 10-yard line and a forward pass which dropped over the goal line gave Exeter the ball on its own 20-yard stripe. In the second period Punchard lost the oval again on Exeter's 15-yard line when the required distance was not made. The Punchard team was not given another opportunity then until late in the third period when they had the ball on Exeter's four-yard line, one yard to go and fourth down. Allen took an end around play but lost four yards and Exeter again took the ball on downs.

In the final period with but a few minutes to play. Batchellor intercepted an Exeter pass and covered 28 yards before he was downed. A series of rushes aided with an eight-yard pass from Walker to Forsythe then put the ball on Exeter's five-yard line. However, Batchellor failed by a yard of making first down and Exeter took the ball again on its own three-yard line.

Punchard, however, outclassed Exeter in all departments of play, with the exception of punting. Punchard annexed 13 first downs to Exeter's four while it gained a total distance of 171 1-2 yards from scrimmage to 46 for Exeter.

The entire Punchard team worked well in Saturday's game The forward line functioned splendidly with Stickney Mahoney, Rondeau and Greene excelling. In the backfield, Captain Batchellor with a total gain of 89 1-2 yards, Emslie with 39 yardsand Forsythe with 27 yards featured.

Exeter had a good team as its undefeated record would testify. It tied both Woodbury and Methuen high while it has victories over others including the Manchester, N. H., high Reserves.

Eight hundred and eighty-six voters registered there wishes for State and County officials last Tuesday. This was, with one exception, the largest vote ever cast in Andover for an "off year," due very largely to the beautiful weather and in a measure to the aroused management of the local democracy. The socialist vote increased as it did in all towns where it was newly introduced, but from the results throughout the state, it would seem to be a doctrine that does not stand the test of long discussion. John N. Cole as candidate for Representative from the Eighth Essex District received 621 votes; Martin Nelson, 1.

The record of attendance for the month ending October 30 at the Punchard school is as follows: Total membership, 122; average daily attendance 114.1; number of cases of tardiness 55; number of cases of dismissal, 13.

P. A. 0—University of N. H. 6

A brilliant 42-yard run for a touchdown in the first period by the Wettergreen gave the University of New Hampshire Freshmen a 6 to 0 victory over Phillips academy at Brothers Field, Saturday.

The Blue had several chances to score, thrice working the leather deep into U. of N. H., territory, but faulty judgment proved costly. Twice the Blue tried forward passes in scoring efforts within 15 yards of the opposition's goal, once on a second down, only to have both go awry, and in another instance they gave the ball up on downs at U. of N. H., 12-yard line.

Andover uncorked a number of forward passes during the game, and had amazing success with a slippery ball, but the attack was not sustained. They also worked a forward-lateral with success twice during the engagement baffling the opposition with the play.

Crane, Andover centre, who played for the first time since he was injured in the first game with Tufts Freshmen, was taken out in the second period with further injuries, shortly after he had gone into the engagement.

Andover started its third team against the visitors, but directly after U. of N. H., had scored, the entire first team went in. Thereafter the Blue fought on about even terms, having the advantage in the fourth quarter. Brilliant punting by Eustis played an important part in U. of N. H. keeping the leather the greater part of the time in Andover's territory.

What the American Red Cross Has Accomplished During the Last Year

In Porto Rico the American Red Cross has a half million homeless and destitute persons under its care, and in Florida there are 50,000 persons looking to it for assistance as a result of the tropical hurricane which swept out of the Caribbean Sea in September and cut a path of destruction over a fifteen-hundred-mile course. A relief fund of about $5,500,000 has been raised with which the organization is preventing intense suffering and in many instances actual starvation.

During the organization's fiscal year which closed June 30th it gave assistance following 88 disasters, 66 of which were in this country and 22 abroad.

Its workers in nearly 3,000 chapters in the United States have assisted an average of 40,500 service and ex-service men each month, helping them to settle government claims and procure hospital treatment and seeing that their families did not suffer while these claims were pending. At the same time Red Cross workers in camps and hospitals assisted an average of nearly 16,000 men each month and arranged during the year more than 22,000 recreation and entertainment events.

Carrying on civilian relief activities only where there is no other agency to do it—mostly in small towns and rural sections—the Red Cross has assisted more than 10,000 families during the year.

In communities throughout the United States and in our Insular and Foreign possessions, its 745 Public Health nurses have been fighting disease and suffering and improving the health standards of the nation. They have made more than a million visits to homes during the year to care for the sick and protect the well. 874,000 school children have been inspected and given assistance in having their physical defects corrected.

Nearly 60,000 women and girls have been taught, in the organization's Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick classes, how to give home care to the sick in their homes and how to prevent sickness by the proper care of the home and the family.

In their fight against malnutrition, the cause of many physical defects in children and adults, the organization has given nutrition instruction to 128,000 persons of whom 122,000 were children.

With 90,000 persons a year dying as a result of accidents, the American Red Cross is waging a nation-wide campaign to reduce this annual loss of life. In the last twelve months it has instructed more than 150,000 persons in the United States in first aid for the injured, while the number of persons enrolled in its life-saving corps after receiving intensive instruction in methods for rescuing and reviving the drowning persons, has reached nearly 174,000. During the year it has also given more than 4,000 lectures and demonstrations for the furtherance of this campaign.

In addition to helping with the administrative and other phases of the work, Red Cross volunteers have during the year, produced more than a quarter of a million garments and two and a quarter million surgical dressings for use in disaster relief work and other contingencies. They have also transcribed 1,316 volumes into Braille, a system of raised lettering whereby the blind are enabled to read. Practically all Braille transcribing in this country is done by Red Cross volunteers.

The American Red Cross makes no appeals for funds during the year except following great national disasters in which cases all funds contributed are spent for relief work in the disaster for which the appeal is made. This entire program of service is financed from membership dues obtained during the Roll Call. In addition to this the membership funds finance many relief operations following relatively small disasters in which no special appeal is made.

"A Tariff for Trouble Only," Hughes Says of Underwood Act

Charles Evans Hughes, former Governor of New York State, former Secretary of State of the United States, and former Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, spoke at St. Joseph, Missouri, October 23, in behalf of the election of Herbert Hoover This speech has long been awaited, as it comes from a man whom the entire nation has had a chance to study in the open for the past thirty years. He is a New York City bred man and speaks for the party and principles he represents, with the same authority that Alfred E. Smith does for his party. That they hold contrary views makes what they say of general interest.

Mr. Hughes, in talking of the tariff, declared: "There has been a historic difference between the two parties in relation to the tariff. The historic policy of the Republican Party has been that of a protective tariff; that is, duties laid to protect American interests and to maintain the American wage scale and the standards of living it makes possible. The historic policy of the Democratic Party has been that of a tariff for revenue only. As long as I can remember this has been a major division between the parties.

"Apparently nothing so irritates our opponents as to suggest that they plan a return to the conditions under the last Democratic (Underwood) tariff—a tariff for trouble only.

"Governor Smith says that he means no harm," declared Mr. Hughes. "He says that he wants to take the tariff out of politics. He is opposed to a general tariff bill. He wishes specific revisions based on the recommendations of an impartial tariff committee. That has a pleasant sound. But our experienc shows that his proposal is as impracticable as some of his other suggestions.

"If history is clear about anything it is that you can't take the tariff out of politics. Congress has the power and will have its say, and what Congress does is necessarily in politics."

America Acclaims Horowitz

Vladimir Horowitz's first American tour last winter was an historic event in contemporary musical history. There had been no debut like his, said the critics since those of Heifetz or Galli-Curci. Audiences rose out of their Anglo-Saxon calm and stamped and cheered after his performances. His "fan" mail assumed the proportions of that of a movie star.

The following brief excerpts from his American press only suggest the reception which this remarkable twenty-four year old pianist, who will appear here on Thursday evening, November 15th at the George Washington Auditorium, met with everywhere.

"The wildest welcome a pianist has received in many seasons in New York."—Olin Downes, N. Y. Times, January 13, 1928.

"A leonine sweep and power, a conquering technique—the audience acclaimed him."—Lawrence Gilman, N. Y. Herald Tribune, January 13, 1928.

"Cyclonic enthusiasm (headline) A breath-taking talent. Horowitz, through his tremendous performance, rendered a service to Rachmaninoff's fame as well as to his own."—Pitts Sanborn, N. Y. Telegram, February 13, 1928.

"Horowitz repeated his sensational conception of the Tschaikovsky Concerto to delirious plaudits."—N. Y. Evening World, January 16, 1928.

"His playing is within the great tradition of enormous resources of tone and astonishing technique; but he can make his instrument sing as well as thunder."—Irving Weil, N. Y. Evening Journal, February 21, 1928.

"A Vulcan of the piano was striking sparks from the keyboard and the conflagration spread through the entire house."—W. J. Henderson, N. Y. Evening Sun, January 13, 1928.

"A conquering king of the keyboard—a performance of poetry and power—rapturously received, earning an impressive ovation."—Philadelphia Inquirer, February 11, 1928.

"The audience gave him the biggest ovation of the season after his magnificent performance with the Philadelphia Orchestra."—Philadelphia Bulletin, February 11, 1928.

"The playing of Horowitz is probably the nearest thing this generation will ever hear to the playing of the young Chopin."—Baltimore News, February 4, 1928.

"Horowitz the sensation of a generation. He has 'it'—for his like one would have to go back to the early Paderewski—a new and elemental force in the pianistic world."—Karleton Hackett, Chicago Evening Post, March 10, 1928.

"A Horowtiz is met only once in a generation—virtuosity comparable to that of Paderewski in his prime."—Cincinnati Enquirer, March 3, 1928.

"It remains for a Horowitz to restore to us the tradition of a Liszt, a Rubinstein, or a von Sauer."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, March 3, 1928.

"Long will it be recalled that for once Cincinnati rose spontaneously, excitedly, for an ovation to a young man who, before he played, was no more than a name, and after his concerto became a celebrity whom Cincinnati will never forget."—Cincinnati Times-Star, March 3, 1928.

"There was a scene of enthusiasm such as has not been aroused by the performance of a pianist in Symphony Hall since the opening of it."—Philip Hale, Boston Herald, March 17, 1928.

"Three weeks ago, Horowitz raised a stir at the symphony concert. Last night, at his recital, he raised another. The house was packed to the doors—Horowtiz is endowed beyond all others with that mysterious attribute which makes the world respond to him with a 'whistle and I'll come to ye, my lad'."—Boston Herald, April 5, 1928.

"The unprecedented sensation made by his debut at the Symphony concerts last month had sold every ticket for the concert in record time. No newcomer since Galli-Curci has succeeded in filling Symphony Hall for a first Boston recital. This young Russian pianist will henceforth be considered as among the foremost of living performers."—Boston Post, April 5, 1928.

"No soloist making a Boston debut within the past 15 years has created anything like the sensation made by Horowitz. He makes stories told of Liszt and Rubinstein rousing audiences to frenzied excitement credible. He has something of the almost uncanny personal force ascribed to Paganini.—the most successful concert artist with the American public to appear in the decade since the debuts of Heifetz and Galli-Curci."—Boston Globe, March 17, 1928.

"Horowitz has restored to the concert hall a style of piano-playing that audiences in two generations have scarcely known."—H. T. Parker, Boston Transcript, March 17, 1928.

"An audience which had bought out the house almost within a day of the opening of the ticket sale went away convinced that Horowitz's tremendous success recently was no mere flash in the pan. It gave striking testimony to the fact that this new genius of the keyboard was an even greater pianist than had been applauded in the Rachmaninoff Concerto a few weeks ago."—Boston American, April 5, 1928.

Peace on Earth

The election is over . . . all but the shouting. Herbert Hoover was elected to the highest office of the nation by an electoral plurality never before attained by a candidate for the presidency of the United States. Although in the closing days of the campaign a Republican victory became more and more apparent, the tremendous landslide of votes he received was unexpected. What more fitting tribute could be paid to this man who has filled with rare ability and unquestioned integrity so many responsible posts for his country and his fellow men? He will assume the chair of Chief Executive of the United States with the expressed confidence of the great majority of American people. All things point to a successful and constructive administration.

Governor Smith, although overwhelmingly defeated fought to the last for his principles. Even if the vote showed that these principles were not those of the majority of American citizens, they were what he believed in and he battled valiantly for his cause. He was one of the first to congratulate his successful opponent and his sincerity was obvious.

As the Townsman has stated in its columns before, the campaign was between two great men and it believes that the best man has won. This is in no measure a discredit to Governor Smith. Now that the election is over, any bitterness which may have existed should be forgotten, and harmony restored among the people. After all, this brings out the true American spirit and what would we rather be than true Americans?

Editorial Cinders

Will someone kindly explain why it takes so long to file the election returns in Massachusetts? Surely it would be much more to her credit to be among the first than the last, and much more interesting to her citizens to have the local results at the same time that they learn the results in the other states which in many cases close their polls three or four hours later. Why does Massachusetts lag in this respect?

****

Every voter in Andover, including those who voted for Lawrence men for state representative from this district, may resign himself to the fact that Andover is without a representative at the General Court. Is this situation, insulting to so many of us, to be accepted without a protest? Is it really possible that nothing can be done about it until the next census in 1935? To all those interested in their government this seems like a rank piece of injustice.

According to recent information he is making satisfactory progress toward recovery.

Good Book Week to Be Observed in Andover

"There is nothing like a good book." That is why we celebrate Good-Book Week every year during November. This year the week begins tomorrow, Saturday, November 10th, and lasts through Saturday the 17th.

The Junior Room of the Memorial Hall Library has planned an interesting program. The boys and girls will again start reading for the State certificates. About one hundred of these were given out last year, and more will surely be won this season, since work for them has already begun.

Under the direction of Miss Farnham, art teacher in the schools, the boys and girls have been making posters. Fifteen of these are to be on exhibition in the Junior Room. Parents are invited to see what their children can do, and to see their library as well.

Story hours will be held on Saturday mornings during the winter, beginning tomorrow, November 10th, at 10.30. As a special treat for Good-Book Week, Miss Eileen Hiland of Dracut, a professional story-teller, will be here to tell the first stories of the season.

There is a Guessing Poster put up in the Junior Room. On it are ten pictures taken from ten different books. At the end of Good-Book Week all the boys and girls who think they know from what books the pictures come, may write their answers. The following week the list of winners will be published in the Townsman.

And from now on, pupils in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades may borrow two books at a time, instead of one.

Unusual Programs to Be Presented at Free Church

"When Men Forget" will be presented by the Verne Jay Players at the Free Church on Sunday evening, November 18, and on the following Wednesday "The Glow Unseen" will be given by the same players assisted by local talent.

"When Men Forget," a drama in one act by Verne Jay, is the fascinating story of a stranger who is discovered one night in the pulpit of a modern church. It vividly conveys a spitirual message and forcefully demonstrates the potentialities of the drama for representing great religious teachings. "The Glow Unseen" is a powerful, modern four-act drama requiring fifteen principal characters in addition to persons of the "mob" and choir. The appeal of the story is so unusual and compelling that the universal comment, "It was so different from anything I have ever seen," is well deserved.

Verne Jay, author and producer of these dramas recently was awarded the prize of $1000 offered by the trustees of the Repertory Theatre of Boston for the best play "holding up faith in life to the youth of America." The competition was open to all students of colleges, universities, and dramatic schools of the country. The board of final award was composed of Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Federatedl Council of Churches of Christ in America, Dr. John Finley of the New York Times, David Belasco and Winthrop Ames, New York producers, and Mrs. Henry Jewett of the Repertory theatre. Mr. Jay's prize-winning play, "S. S., Incorporated" opened at the Repertory theatre on the fifteenth of last month.

Communication

Andover, Nov., 7, 1928

Dear Townsman Editor:

Post-election congratulations are in order to our Representatives, my recent opponents, and hearty thanks to many friends who gave voluntarily of their time and effort and to a very large number of voters. I have rather presumed on their patience by indulging in so many up-hill contests the past three years but I didn't want the town's interests to go by default and there have been many compensations, among them the forming of pleasant acquaintanceships with Andover and South Lawrence people.

Of course, from my standpoint, there were some disappointments: that more Andover Democrats weren't willing to place town pride above partisan politics, that good sportsmanship and fair play didn't prove more effective political motives in South Lawrence, that the police the remade no effort to enforce the law forbidding the distribution of campaign literature within 150 feet of the polls, and that no financial assistance was forthcoming except from the Republican State Committee and the Lawrence Telegram.

The nomination of an Independent Democrat in the Republican primaries, two years hence, would seem to offer about the only hope of Andover's having a Representative of her own prior to the next re-districting of the state in 1936.

The great interest taken by new and old voters alike in registering their choice of candidates was very encouraging and a good omen, if continued, of better government.

Very sincerely,
THAXTER EATON

Tea was served by a committee whose members include Mrs. Walter Buxton, chairman, Mrs. James Hovey, Mrs. George Smith and Mrs. James Feeney.

Garden Club Learns About Fall Coloration

Miss Margaret I. Jardine of the Lowthorpe school at Groton spoke on "Fall Coloration" at the November meeting of the Andover Garden club held Tuesday morning at Christ church parish house with Mrs. John Stewart presiding and thirty members present.

Miss Jardine gave many helpful suggestions but said that the garden should be a reflection of the owner's personality rather than,merely the result of a landscape architects suggestions. She spoke of the value of gray in foliage and bark, of evergreens, of vines which retain their foliage until late in the season and of the bright colors of fruiting shrubs.

Mrs. John Stewart gave a report of the recent meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Garden clubs held in Boston. Mrs. William A. Trow was appointed a delegate to attend the first series of lectures to be given in Boston under the auspices of the Federation.

The names of four persons as new members of the Andover Garden club were presented and voted upon favorably.

To Lecture on Calendar Simplification

Every holiday in the year except Good Friday and Easter would be arbitrarily placed on Mondays. Easter would be stabilized at a date, probably April 15th, to be selected by the interested church bodies. Every month of twenty-eight days, exactly four weeks long, would start on Sunday and end on Saturday. A thirteenth month would be placed between June and July. A holiday having no week-day name would occur between Saturday, December 28th and Sunday, January 1st. Leap day would be transferred from February 29th to a holiday having no week-day name, between Saturday June 28th and the first day of the new month

These are some of the calendar changes which will be advocated by Colonel H. Edmund Bullis of Washington, D. C., in his talk before the members of Abbot Academy on Monday evening, November 12th at 8:15 o'clock. This talk is given under the auspices of the National Committee on Calendar Simplification, whose chairman is George Eastman of Rochester, N. Y. A few of the other members of this committee are Dr. C. F. Marvin, Chief, U. S. Weather Bureau, Dr. G. K. Burgess, Chief, Bureau of Standards; Dr. John J. Tigert, U. S. Commissioner of Education; Dr. Fred E. Wright, National Academy of Sciences; Haley Fiske, president, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; Gerard Swope, president, General Electric Company; Benjamin F. Affleck, President, Universal Portland Cement Company; A. E. Harris, chairman, Executive Committee, N. Y. Central Railroad; George E. Roberts, vice president, National City Bank; William Green, president, American Federation of Labor; David Lawrence, president, Consolidated Press; Mrs. John D. Sherman, past president, General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mary Roberts Rinehart, noted author of Washington, D. C., Colonel Oscar N. Solbert, former military attache to London and White House Aide, national secretary of the Committee on Calendar Simplification.

Colonel Bullis has traveled extensively in Asia, Africa and Europe. He was in the Orient with the Vanderlip mission and the mission of the late Lord Northcliffe. He had charge of the visit of the Chinese High Commission to the United States, and also of the mission to America of M. Herriot, late Premier of France. He saw service with the artillery in France and since the world War has served for three years on the General Staff of the United States Army in Washington. At the present time he is a Department Officer of the American Legion in the District of Columbia. He is a member of the Circumnavigators Club, Explorers Club, National Press Club and Rotary. As a result of his exploration work in Borneo, he was made a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of London, England, and a life member of the geographical societies of France and Czechoslovakia. He has been decorated by the French for his work in Indo-China.

In his lecture, "The Romance of the Calendar," Colonel Bullis will outline the interesting background of calendar history and will explain the advantages claimed for the simplified calendar.

As a result of this research, he has become an authority on this subject and an advocate of the simplified calendar movement. During the past year he has addressed over two hundred audiences in twenty-four different states on this timely subject.

Votes for Hoover in Her 99th Year

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Kimball of Ballardvale road made the trip to Boxford on Tuesday to cast her vote for Herbert Hoover as President. Mrs. Kimball passed her ninety-ninth birthday three months ago.

The Little Grey House on Florence Street

Sadly we walk down the street where the little grey house stands empty and forlorn. Its mistress has gone and we needed her so much.

As we stand quietly a picture moves before our eyes. Who are these? Why, there is the boy who failed to make his grade but under Miss Emily's tutoring not only made the grade but today is an honored resident of the town. Then there is the shy lassie, who knew, but could never recite. She too is filling an honored place in the world. Then there moved across the screen, picture after picture of those who today are doing their part in the world, all because the spirit that dominated the little grey house had become a part of their lives and the love and advice which was so freely given has grown as such things have a fashion of doing. We look again and is it fancy or not, the little grey house smiles at us and one feels that the influence for good started there will keep on growing as long as a single one of the little pupils who loved "Miss Emmy" so much are living. We bid her God speed in her new life, knowing that where she goes the life of those with she comes in contact will be the richer and sweeter because she passed by.

German Play at Abbot

Under the direction of Miss Ruth Stephens Baker, head of the Modern Language Department, the pupils of the German classes will present an evening of entertainment in Davis Hall on Tuesday evening, November 13, at 8 o'clock. There will be a charge of fifty cents. A group of German folk songs will be sung by the girls of the department, and a short play will follow: "Einer muss heiraten!" by Alexander Wilhelmi. The play is one of clever dialogue and amusing situations—a tale of two pedantic brothers, who, urged on by a match-making aunt draw lots to propose to Luisa, whose charms had passed unnoticed until pointed out by Aunt Gertrude. The play is a good-natured satire, making merry in a harmless way over the absent-minded university professor. Charlotte Butler, '29, will read a synopsis of the play, and the parts will be taken as follows: Jakob Zorn, Wilhelm Zorn, Bruder Professoren an einen Universitat, Polly Francis, Despina Plakias; Gertrude, ihre Tante, Mary Eaton; Luise, ihre Kusine, Doris Seiler.

Fall Work by Board of Public Works Moves on Apace

Accomplishments in the various departments of the Board of Public Works for the month of October are reported by Superintendent Charles T. Gilliard as follows:

WATER DEPT.

The old 2-inch line on Gardner avenue which had outlived its usefulness has been replaced by a new 6-inch line. A hydrant has been installed at the end of this line in front of the Gates property, which obviates the necessity of running a hose from Main street in case of fire.

Early in the summer a section of Chestnut street was placed under the high service, so as to increase the water pressure at the hydrant near the top of Chestnut street, thereby giving a sufficient volume of water in case of fire. This caused two additional dead ends which gave considerable trouble. Because of the foregoing, the dead end on the high service pipe on Bartlet street in front of the property owned by the Bell Estate has been connected to the Morton street line. This has allowed the water mains on Avon street to Highland road, on Avon street, on Upland road, on Pine street, and on Summer street from Avon street to Highland road to be supplied by the high-service reservoir. The results of this are a circulating line, in view of the fact that Highland road is under high service, an increase in pressure in this area, and the elimination of two troublesome dead ends.

The work of building the retaining wall in front of the property owned by Edward Fleming was started October 19th. This work necessitated making a temporary water connection to take care of three tenements during a part of the construction work, and in addition it was necessary to relocate two water services.

On October 21st, the hydrant located at the corner of Bellevue road and Haggett's Pond road was broken, and this was promptly replaced.

A representative from the American La France Co., gave an interesting demonstration regarding the use of an efficient hydrant thawing device which was recently purchased. Heretofore it required hours to thaw a frozen hydrant using a wood fire, while the new device accomplishes the same results in 30 seconds.

HIGHWAY DEPT.

The new road on Salem street just recently completed facilitates traffic entering to and from Main street. Prior to relocating this section of the street, an acute angle on the southerly side impaired the entrance of northbound traffic to Salem street.

Torr street was in a very dangerous condition and was rebuilt using the old material from the Salem street job.

Bancroft road and Avon street were given a treatment of asphalt and tar during the month just passed.

The Lowell Junction road from River street to Lowell Junction is now being used quite extensively because of a Dye Works at Lowell Junction. Last spring it was impossible for big trucks to deliver materials, and the road has been reconditioned with ashes. In addition to this, the road has been widened at intervals to permit the passage of two cars.

During the last month ashes have also been used to fill in dangerous ruts on the following streets—Brown street, Rattlesnake Hill road, Dufton road and Marland street.

The planks on the Woburn street bridge that had rotted were replaced.

The work on River road has been complete. Previous to the construction of this road, Chandler road from River road to Greenwood road, a section of Greenwood road and North street were scraped to put these roads in good condition so that they could be used as a detour during the construction of River road.

Culverts on Summer street and Prospect Hill road have been repaired, water ways have been dug on Webster street, and the road has been filled in. A new pipe culvert has been installed on Cross street to take the place of an old stone culvert that caused trouble during heavy rains. A new culvert has also been installed on Argilla road.

Installing the new pipe on Washington avenue made it necessary to fill in and roll part of that street, and in addition a treatment of 45 per cent asphalt has been applied.

Gardner avenue and Stinson road have been filled in and rolled. Ruts and holes on Jenkins road, Vine street, Woburn street and Ballardvale road have been filled in. A number of bowlders have been removed from Vine street.

The Lawrence Gas & Electric Co., dug up Union street and Riverina road to install gas and electric mains. These streets have been repaired by employees of the Department of Public Works and the cost of this work has been charged to the Lawrence Gas and Electric Co.

The work on Fletcher street has been completed, and stone-dust sidewalks have been constructed. The bids for curbing for this road were as follows:

J. C. Lanouette	.95 per ft
Chelmsford Granite Co.	1.05 per ft.

A section of highway fence has been erected on Salem street near the property owned by A. E. Collings, and is an excellent safeguard for motor-vehicle traffic.

The highway fence around a portion of Haggett's pond has been given a coat of paint and the remaining highway fences on Lowell street are now being painted.

SEWER DEPT.

The crowned sewer manhole covers on High street in the way of the New road have been replaced by flat covers. Because the crowned covers make high spots in the roads they should be replaced on a number of other streets in town.

The main sewer pipe on Hillside avenue was relocated because of the change in the property owned by Edward Fleming.

PARK DEPT.

The shrubbery in the parks has been trimmed and all the dead wood removed.

The members of the Village Improvement society very generously paid the expense incidental to grading a triangular plot at the West Parish.

An unsightly area of grounds near the B & M R. R. station was loamed and seeded.

Ensemble Concert at Abbot Academy

A concert of great interest and distinction will be given at Abbot Academy on the night of November 20th by Kate Friskin, pianist; Marie Nichols, violinist; and two members of the Boston Symphony orchestra; Messrs. Langendoen, violoncellist, and Valkenier, horn player.

The concert will be the first of the Centennial series which is devoted largely to visiting artists. Admission of one dollar will be taken at the door.

This group of artists gave their program in Jordon Hall, Boston, on October 23rd.

Scouts of St. Augustine's Parish to Present Musical Melange

The "Jolly Buccaneers" will be presented in the town hall Friday evening, November 23 under the auspices of the Boy Scouts of Troops 6, 7 and 8 of St. Augustine's parish. The presentation is a musical melange and the boys have been rehearsing diligently for the past two weeks under the direction of James Flannery, minstrel show director. Frederick Cronin of Ballardvale is serving as an assistant to Mr. Flannery and is in charge of the musical part of the program.

One of the leading characters in the cast will be Charles G. Murray, assistant scoutmaster in Troop 7. He will sing as a solo "My Flame Is Just a Match for Me."

A rehearsal of the cast was held Wednesday evening in the parochial school hall.

Abbot Academy Notes

On Saturday afternoon, a bus load of girls will go to Cambridge to watch the game played between the English hockey team and the Boston team.

In the evening of November 10, at 7.30 in Abbot Hall, Dr. Clarence Barbour, president of the Colgate-Rochester Theological Seminary, and president-elect of Brown University will be the speaker at the weekly service. To this service friends of the school are invited.

Armistice Day will be celebrated by a special service on Sunday evening, conducted by Miss Kelsey. Miss Bailey will be in New York, attending the meeting of the Head-Mistresses Association, from Thursday to Monday.

Col. H. E. Bullis of Washington, D. C. will give a lecture on the simplification of the calendar on Monday evening at 8.15. For this lecture there will be no charge, and it is hoped that the subject will interest many of the townspeople.

The Junior class, Mariette Whittemore, president, and the preparatory class enjoyed a picnic at noon time on Wednesday, November 7. After a bountiful luncheon, including roasted "hot dogs", the afternoon was spent in playing games in the grove.

On Sunday evening, Miss Ann Wiggin, of the Committee on Friendly Relations of the Y. W. C. A., addressed the school at the service in Abbot Hall. Miss Wiggin painted a vivid picture of the hardships endured by the students of Europe, many of whom are without places of shelter and are constantly hungry, contrasting them with the ease of living enjoyed by students in the United States. For several years the girls of Abbot Academy have contributed to the Student Friendship Fund, and this year will not be an exception.

The good points of Governor Alfred E. Smith and of Herbert Hoover were declaimed on Monday evening in Davis Hall at a political rally. As the school sympathies have been overwhelmingly with Mr. Hoover, Democrats and Republicans were arbitrarily "drafted", and the school was thus divided into halves. Introduced by Millicent Smith of New Bedford, Virginia Drake of Wichita, Kansas, and Eleanor Foreman of Charlotte, N. C., spoke for Smith, and were succeeded by the "Republican committee," headed by Gwenllian Jones of Cincinnati. The two speakers for Hoover were Catherine Bowden of Marblehead and Elizabeth McAllister of Methuen.

On Tuesday evening, November 6, Mr. Howe pleased his audience by presenting a varied program of organ music. The range from Handel and Bach to Gershwin (whose Rhapsody in Blue was played as an encore) was appreciated by the students particularly.

After Mr. Howe's recital, Miss Bailey invited the faculty and a few neighbors to hear the election returns on the radio in the McKeen Rooms. The quick relaying of the returns, interspersed with the shouting of the crowds without and the roar of the presses within the World building made this election night unforgettable.

WEST PARISH

The R. P. C. Girls' club met with Miss Helen M. Lewis, Lowell road, on Monday evening. Routine business was disposed of after which a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. E. J. Terwilliger on Wednesday afternoon. Plans were perfected for the giving of the play, "How the Club Was Formed" by members of the society, on Friday evening November 23, at eight o'clock, in the new vestry.

Andover Grange will meet on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. It will be visitors' night with Dracut and West Boxford as the evening's invited guests. Refreshments will be served by the sixth twenty-five and the entertainment for the lecturer's hour will be given by the visiting Granges.

Two real improvements that one notices on driving through the parish are the grading of the lot at the corner of Shawsheen road and Lowell street and the grading that has been done around the new vestry. Another item of interest is the placing of the snow fences, a very real help in keeping the highway clear in a snow storm.

The Merrill Chapter, X. B. K., is planning an entertainment in the new vestry for Friday, November 16. Pit Parker, the cartoonist and caricaturist will be the entertainer and as he is well known to Andover audiences, no more need be said. Tickets may be obtained of any member of the Merrill Chapter, X. B. K., or at the door.

The R. P. C. Girls' club will give a card party at the home of Miss Winona Boutwell, Wednesday evening, November 21. Tables may be reserved by telephoning Miss Boutwell, 474-W. The club plans to take one of the Christmas opportunities offered by the Telegram and takes this as one of the means of raising the necessary funds. Plan to be there.

Essex County Agricultural School Notes

County Agent Smith's Report

The annual report of the County Agricultural Agent, Francis C. Smith, was presented Tuesday of this week to Director Smith of the Essex County Agricultural School at Hathorne.

This report shows there were 674 total farm visits made on 397 different farms; 182 persons called at the office; and 319 telephoned the office on business. There were 1335 individual letters written, and 72 form letters with a total distribution of 28,176. This is double the number of last year. There were 92 meetings with an attendance of 3256.

Alfalfa Demonstrations

Four carefully planned fields have been seeded this year; one back of the Cooperative Farming Association Office; W. D. Bragdon, Methuen; Louis Bourdelais, Andover; and Fred Miller, Methuen.

One corn silage variety test was conducted at the School to determine the best sorts to use in this county. This will be continued another year.

Turkeys Breeders Organize

The largest exhibit of turkeys ever held in New England was at the County Fair at Topsfield in 1928. The breeders held a banquet at Ipswich recently and organized the Essex County Turkey Breeders Association. Twelve members have joined to date. There are approximately 5000 turkeys in Essex County. The officers are; President, John E. Cox, Hamilton; vice president, John Turner, Hamilton; secretary, Clarence Knowlton, Hamilton; treasurer, Everett True, Salisbury; directors, Malcolm Bell, Marblehead, Carl Noyes, Newbury, and Frank Smith, Ipswich.

The organization cooperated with the Essex County Agricultural Agent in holding an auto tour last Thursday. Stops were made at Dr. E. E. Tyzzer's home near Wakefield, P. J. Davis, Sudbury, Richard Saltonstall, Sherborn Falls, Mrs. Oakes Ames, North Easton. The visitors saw about one carload of turkeys at each stop.

A GREAT TRIBUTE

If you are ever so fortunate as to visit our National Capitol at Washington, you will find many things there to thrill you.

But none, perhaps, as stirring as one picture that hangs as a permanent gift to the American people and a fitting tribute to one of the most glorious deeds in all our nation's proud history.

This wonderful picture bears the simple title 'WE," and as its name suggests, depicts the gallant flight of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh from New York to Paris—the flight that thrilled the world, and gave it probably its most loved hero of all time.

And the best part of all this is, you can have a handsome copy of "WE", printed in twelve colors and measuring eighteen by twenty-four inches, to hang in your own home.

You cannot buy the picture at any price. It may be had only through The Youth's Companion as its free gift to you with a year's subscription to the magazine.

In its new form as a monthly magazine, The Companion itself has more to offer than ever before—a full book-length novel complete in each issue; serials and short stories; feature articles, editorials, contests, puzzles, poems, recommendations of books and motion pictures, and special departments for both boys and girls covering their own favorite activities.

In order that every American home may enjoy the inspiration of the famous picture "WE," we make the following liberal offer:

1. The Youth's Companion, 12 big monthly numbers, and
2. Two extra numbers to new subscribers ordering within 30 days, and
3. A copy of "WE" in 12 colors, framing size 18x24 inches. All for only $2.

WORK OF VOLUNTEERS RED CROSS BACKBONE

Men and Women Who Give Services Aid Greatly — Surgical Dressings, Knitting, Sewing Still Carried On.

Thousands of women, who were first enrolled as Red Cross workers during the period of the World War, have never ceased in their labors for that organization, but still carry on knitting garments for disabled soldiers, making dresses and layettes for children and infants, and giving hours of their time in the various volunteer activities of Red Cross work. Volunteer work by men also plays a large part in the organization of Red Cross.

This volunteer work is the backbone of Red Cross. Fully eighty-five per cent of the service this humanitarian organization is able to render the public, through public health, American Junior Red Cross, service to disabled veterans of the World War, and the service men of the regular establishment, and its many other activities, must fall upon the shoulder of the volunteer worker. Not only is this true of the national headquarters where such distinguished volunteers are enrolled as Judge John Barton Payne, chairman, and Miss Mabel Boardman, secretary of the Red Cross, and Col. E. P. Bicknell, vice chairman in charge of foreign operation, but also in every community where Chapter chairmen and other men and women devote hours of their time to fostering and planning the valuable and humane work of Red Cross, so that it may be ever ready to serve in time of distress, catastrophe or great national emergency.

In the year just ended, 253,000 garments were provided by Red Cross Chapters, including 1,399 layettes with nineteen articles each, for use in disaster areas.

Women who rolled surgical dressings ten years ago, with the help of new volunteers, still carry on this work for hospitals in their communities, and for the Chapter's stock, where a supply must be maintained to answer emergency calls. In the year just ended, the women made 2,276,000 dressings.

No type of volunteer work is more interesting or meets greater appreciation from its beneficiaries than the distribution each December of Christmas bags—one of which goes to every service man in the Army and Navy stationed on a distant post. Each year the request comes for more bags, until for Christmas, 1928, Red Cross volunteers have been asked to provide 42,000. The bags, containing small necessities dear to a service man's heart, go to the Philippines, China, Guam, Nicaragua and all the distant ports where Uncle Sam's men are stationed.

Another service these volunteers perform, which has generally gripped the imagination of all who have come in touch with it, is the transcription into Braille for the blind of hundreds of books. Need of certain types of books for the blind first came to the attention of Red Cross through the blinded veterans of the World War From work begun for the war blind, with a few devoted workers, this transcription of books now is being carried on by 1,029 Braille transcribers, who during this year have hand copied 150,705 pages, and 348 titles have been completed.

"Inside" Information

Do you know Leaflet 28, "Lamb as You Like It"? It contains many suggestions on cooking lamb properly, and may be obtained for the asking from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Squash, as well as pumpkin, can be used for pie filling. As these pies contain eggs and milk, they must be cooked in a moderate oven. To prevent the crust from becoming soggy, prebake it until it is delicately colored, but not brown, before putting in the filling.

There are no household methods of setting the color in a dyed fabric. The use of salt, vinegar, and other substances has been found to do absolutely no good. Dyes, however, are so much better now than they used to be, that it is usually satisfactory to try a sample of the goods you think of buying, and if it does not run when you wash it, or fade too much when exposed to sunlight, it may be considered reasonably fast in color.

Canned pineapple can be served in a number of appetizing ways when fresh fruits become scarce. Pineapple pies, tarts, and sauces for dessert are all delicious. Pineapple and sweet potato baked in alternating layers makes a good vegetable combination. Fried sliced pineapple is often served with meats, just as apple sauce or fried apples or a tart jelly is served. A good winter preserve can be made from canned pineapple and dried apricots.

Outing flannel makes a good drip bag for fruit juice when making jelly. It is preferred by some people to cheesecloth.

Do not use overripe fruits for jelly-making. The acid content may be insufficient to make jelly and the flavor will not be so good as that of jelly made from just ripe, or underripe fruit.

Prolong the life of shoes in wintertime, especially those worn by men and boys without rubbers, by soaking the soles in a grease that will make them waterproof. The United States Department of Agriculture recommends several simple formulas for the purpose.

Rice can be cooked in an open kettle in 15 to 20 minutes. A large quantity of water should be used. As soon as a grain pressed between the thumb and forefinger is soft and has no hard portion in the center, the rice should be taken from the fire, drained, covered with a cloth, and allowed to steam until the grains swell and separate.

In cake recipes with a number of eggs, it is possible to substitute baking powder for one or two of the eggs called for, during the period of egg scarcity. Of course the cake will not be so rich as when all the eggs required are used. Allow one-half teaspoon of baking powder and two tablespoons of milk for each egg omitted. From half to two-thirds of the eggs called for should be used even when this substitution is practiced.

Getting More Variety Into School Lunches

There is apt to be a discouraging sameness about the lunches the children carry to school. Why not make sandwiches of different kinds of bread once in a while? Use whole wheat, rye, or steamed brown bread sometimes in place of the usual white bread; or raisin, nut, or date bread, all of which are good with cheese filling or no filling at all. Or orange bread, made with chopped orange peel. For a change omit sandwiches and include biscuits, rolls, or corn bread, or oatmeal or bran muffins. A piece of cheese, hard-cooked egg, or a chicken drumstick may take the place of sandwich filling. The center of a roll may be hollowed out and filled with chopped meat or cooked fish seasoned with Mayonnaise. A small bag of crisp potato chips is liked occasionally, and, not too often, a piece of pickle.

Salad fillings, including a leaf of lettuce and any preferred dressing, always help to make ordinary sandwiches more moist. Bacon and lettuce, ground peanuts mixed with cream, tomato with mayonnaise, cooked meat cake in thin flat slices are other good fillings suggested by the Bureau of Home Economics to vary the sliced cold meat that appears so frequently.

Be sure to season all sandwiches with sufficient salt, and keep a small salt shaker with the lunch basket. Cut the bread evenly, but not too thin, and spread it carefully on both sides so that the butter forms a coating that prevents the filling from soaking through. Don't get the edges smeared with butter. Butter should be creamed before it is spread on bread for sandwiches, but it should not be melted, as that makes it soak into the bread.

A whole tomato, a heart of celery, radishes, peeled Jerusalem artichokes, some chopped cabbage mixed with boiled dressing and carried in a jelly glass, slices of cucumber, raw carrot, or rutabaga are suggestions for including uncooked vegetables from time to time. Milk, it is to be hoped, is available at the school, and perhaps a hot dish. Fruit drinks are also desirable, and fruit of some kind every day. Dried fruits like figs, raisins, and dates can be used occassionally.

Put in a sweet "surprise" now and then—a new kind of cookie, a piece of chocolate, an attractive piece of cake, maple sugar, or even a few candies. Needless to say, the lunch should be packed attractively and so that it will be in good condition when unpacked. Wrap each food separately in waxed paper. Pack those least likely to crush at the bottom. The basket or box used should be ventilated and should be kept scrupulously clean. An extra paper napkin or paper towel to spread on the school desk adds to the comfort and daintiness of the child's meal.

Boston & Maine Net Income During September

The Boston and Maine Railroad in September earned a net income of $655,018, which compares with $714,304 in the same month of 1927.

With a decrease in freight revenues of $136,078 and in passenger revenues of $119,311, total operating revenues showed a falling off of $296,056.

Operating expenses showed a decrease, as against September, 1927, of $166,911, with increases in maintenance of way expenses, largely due to the Boston and Maine's heavy improvement program, more than offset by decreases in maintenance of equipment and of transportation.

The Trustees of Abbot Academy, having petitioned the Board of Selectmen for a license to conduct or maintain a Garage of the second class and to keep or store volatile inflammable liquid in connection therewith at 4 Morton Street in said Town of Andover, a public hearing on said petition will be held at the Town House on Monday, November 26th, 1928 at 4 o'clock p.m. in accordance with the provisions of the General Laws relating thereto.

OFFICE OF THE
BOARD OF SELECTMEN
ANDOVER, MASS.

You are hereby required on or before December 1, 1928, to destroy the gypsy and brown tail moths on your property in this town.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 132, General Laws, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown tail moths under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land. (Section 18, Chapter 132, General Laws, on reverse).

The Selectmen ask owners and tenants to cooperate with the town in its work on highways and other public grounds by doing effective work on their premises. Citizens who have cleaned their premises of the moths, but find their trees endangered by the neglect of owners of adjoining estates should make complaint to the Selectmen. The infestation of a residential neighborhood by the neglect of a few will not be tolerated.

The eggs of the gypsy moth should be destroyed at once with creosote. They should never be scraped off the object on which they are laid. Careful search should be made for gypsy moth egg clusters, not only on trees, but also on house walls, stone walls, fences and in rubbish heaps, etc. Trees in which cavities occur and which it is not desirable to cut should have the cavities tinned or cemented. This is important. The present and future cost of combating this insect can be greatly reduced by cutting and burning worthless brush, hollow trees, etc. A few trees well-cared for are more valuable to the property owner and the community than a large number of neglected trees.

The nests of the brown tail moth should be cut from the trees, carefully collected and burned in a stove or furnace.

Full instructions as to the best methods of work against the moths may be obtained from the Local Superintendent, E. Burke Thornton or from the State Forester, Room 519, State House, Boston, Mass.

Work done yy contractors should be inspected and approved by Local Superintendent before payment for the same is made.

TO THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF ESSEX COUNTY:

GENTLEMEN:

The undersigned respectfully represent that by reason of the changes which have been made in the location of the bridge carrying the Boston and Maine Railroad over Haverhill Street in the town of Andover and the lowering of the grade of the street beneath the bridge and of the approach on the easterly side of the Railroad, certain portions of the existing highway are no longer necessary or available for the purposes of a highway, and common convenience and necessity require that the lines of the said highway from the Boston and Maine Railroad easterly about one hundred feet (100') should be altered and that portions of the existing highway within the same limits should be discontinued.

WHEREFORE they pray that after due notice and a hearing the County Commissioners may alter the said highway and discontinue portions thereof as they may deem best.

BABSON SHOWS PRESENT PROSPERITY OWES MUCH TO ABSENCE OF STRIKES

Cooperation and Peaceful Settlement of Labor Disputes Distinct Advantage over Old Methods of Conflict — Responsible Leaders of Industry and Labor Should Not Relax Educational Efforts Emphasizing Such Benefits

Babson Park, Massachusetts, November 9, 1028.

"Our present prosperity is fully as much an effect of peaceful labor conditions as it is a cause of these conditions. It is true that labor troubles tend to diminish when wages are high and general business prosperous, which is the condition that has prevailed over the past five years. It is even more true, however, that business can only be truly prosperous when there is a conscious spirit of co-operation between capital and labor. Statistics show that the number of strikes and lock-outs have decreased 94 per cent from 1919 to 1927. When we consider this enormous burden that has been removed from industry our present prosperity appears as a natural consequence. Business cannot flourish when a heavy load of costly, wasteful, efficiency-sapping strikes and lock-outs bear it down. Their blighting influence affects every industry and every family. Management, workers, stockholders, and the public share equally in paying their enormous cost.

"One of the most encouraging signs for the continued prosperity of the country, therefore, is the fact that our labor troubles have fallen to the lowest level since 1914. In 1927 there were only 364,000 strikes or lock-outs compared with 4,160,000 in 1919. There is increasing evidence that the strike method of settlement of industrial disputes is on the wane. Moreover, the long-swing outlook is for declining labor troubles. It should not be assumed, however, that the millennium of industrial peace has come. If business should fall off severely labor disputes would increase. Also we shall have periods when capital and labor forget the blessings which co-operation has brought them and for the time being lapse into an attitude of greed and selfishness. Therefore, the responsible leaders of industry and of labor should not relax for a moment their educational efforts emphasizing the economic benefits of co-operation and peaceful settlement of labor disputes whenever they arise, as compared with the old method of conflict.

Training of Foremen Highly Important

"The man who comes in most direct contact with the workers in a manufacturing plant is the foreman. It is the foreman who can make or break the labor relations of any company. Hence, the problem of management is to keep the foremen so interested in the broader principles of co-operation and efficiency that they will use their influence to the best advantage. Many plants have adopted the conference plan whereby foremen meet together with the executives to discuss the ways and means of reducing turn-over and increasing good will and efficiency. In many plants there are, foreman-training courses,' which have been very successful. It is generally recognized that too heavy labor turn-over is very expensive. The cost of training new men is great. This does not mean that the foremen with the lowest turn-over is necessarily the most efficient, for a certain measure of change in personnel is almost invariably beneficial since it means the weeding out of the inefficient. It is obvious, nevertheless, that the foreman who shows an unduly high labor turn-over in his department is somewhere at fault and is costing the company money. In a recent study of the problem the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company pointed out several ways by which turn-over control can be exercised by the foreman. Five of these I consider of paramount importance, as follows:

"1. Give a square deal. Do not show favoritism.

"2 Take a personal interest in employees. Demonstrate this interest by seeing that each person receives all the benefits to which he is entitled. Study men, their qualifications, and their peculiarities to avoid misfits.

"3. Develop leadership. Employees respect and stay with a leader who they feel is looking out for their legitimate interests.

"4. Have a department promotion policy. Such a policy when generally understood will help to build up morale. Let employees know what they must do to be in line for promotion.

"5. Adjust complaints and grievances. Clear up misunderstandings and false rumors. Many complaints can be handled without embarrassment to any one. Present management policies in an understandable way.

"Above all the foreman should not grow careless in these respects simply because there is now an abundance of labor ready to replace those who are dissatisfied. By so doing he will build up a feeling of ill will and do the company great harm.

Decreasing Immigration Helps Employment Situation

"Authorities generally are agreed that the maintenance of high wages and the present standard of living of the American workers is essential to the continuance of our prosperity. Large immigration inevitably tends to break down wages and reduce purchasing power. Hence, the 7 per cent decrease in immigration during the last fiscal year is a favorable factor in the general employment situation. Also the departure of aliens showed a sharp increase, leaving the net increase in population due to foreign entries 20 per cent lower than the year, previous. Immigrant competition, therefore should not prove a serious factor.

Mergers as a Factor in Unemployment

"In our mad rush for efficiency we should not forget that in the long run the world is ruled by feelings and emotions and not by figures. While it may work to the immediate efficiency and reduction of costs to dismiss long service employees when concerns are merged, it is extremely questionable whether the ill-will engendered by this process is justified by the immediate savings. Undoubtedly the trend of industry today is toward consolidation, and oftentimes one of the results of such consolidations is the elimination of the old and trusted employees who have helped to build up the individual companies entering the merger. Unless our industrial leaders give this matter the attention it deserves and try to devise ways of providing for these innocent victims of the merger movement, the public may little by little acquire the idea that all mergers are inhuman and mercenary and against the public welfare. Such a public opinion if once engendered might conceivably react disastrously on industry and favor another period of 'trust busting.' This is a matter which deserves serious consideration.

"Capital and labor should consolidate their gains. In the past five years more progress has been made toward mutual understanding of their common interests than ever before. It is up to both to dig in and consolidate these spiritual gains. Workers must keep constantly in mind that wages can only be paid in a fair ratio to the other costs of production, and that if wages are unduly boosted in one industry the cost of production will be increased beyond the price that can be obtained for the product. The result, of course, is depression, not only in that industry, but in other related industries. Workers must also clearly understand that only by increasing production and efficiency can more goods be made available at lower prices for all people.

"Employers, on the other hand, must keep in mind that reasonably high wages are the only safequard to continued prosperity and consequently continued profits. In this present period of abundant labor they should not become careless of their relations with their employees, nor use the labor surplus as a means of lowering wage standards. In some instances wage reductions are unavoidable, owing to conditions in a given industry; but they should be resorted to only after every other expedient has been tried. The Babsonchart of business activity now stands at 4 per cent above normal."

"Inside" Information

Sirup from canned fruit or sweet pickles may be combined with the pulp or pomace left after extracting fruit juice for jelly, to make a fruit butter of good flavor.

Either beet or cane sugar may be used for jelly-making. A proportion that gives good results with fairly tart, underripe fruits is three-fourths of a cup of sugar to one cup of fruit juice.

Neglecting to boil the jelly glasses may cause fermentation of the jelly after a few weeks in some cases. Scalding the glasses with hot water is not so good a precaution as boiling them.

Season your fuel wood. It makes more heat and saves time and worry in the home In order to season rapidly, wood should be piled, or "ricked up" in narrow, long piles exposed fully to sun and wind and protected against rain. A woodshed is an excellent investment, particularly if built with a good overhanging roof and with an open or stripped section all the way around a foot or two higher than the floor to provide for air ventilation.

For rather novel sandwiches or thin bread and butter for afternoon tea make some orange bread. The flavor is given by the cooked peel of 2 oranges. This is cut into shreds, covered with water and cooked for about 20 minutes, or until tender and then, drained. Next cook the peel in a sirup made of one cup of sugar and one half cup of water until there is only about one tablespoon of the sirup left. Sift together 3 cups of flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, and one half teaspoon salt. Cut in one tablespoon of butter and add one well-beaten egg and one and a quarter cups of milk. Beat this mixture for about 3 minutes. Stir in the orange peel and mix thoroughly. Pour in a greased bread pan and bake for one hour in a moderate oven.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Having secured the great George M. Cohan stage success, "The Home Towners," for production as a Vitaphone special, Warner Bros. lost no time in drafting the best talent of both stage and screen to fill important roles in the play.

The imposing roster of stars appearing in "The Home Towners" include Richard Bennett, Doris Kenyon, Robert McWade, Gladys Brockwell, Robert Edeson, Stanley Taylor, Vera Lewis, John Miljan, James T. Mack and Patricia Caron.

All are noted. Bennett is a stellar product of spoken drama and has played in pictures as well. Miss Kenyon is one of the most brilliant stars of stage and screen. McWade was a member of the original New York cast of stage production of "The Home Towners."

Bryon Foy, who directed "The Home Towners," won fame by his work in "Lights of New York," the first all-talking picture as well as a number of other Vitaphone productions.

Addison Burkhart and Murray Roth wrote the scenario.

"The Home Towners" comes to the Empire Theatre next Sunday for the entire week.

B. F. KEITH MEMORIAL THEATRE

Topping the bil at the New B. F. Keith Memorial Theatre, week of November 12th, is Ted Lewis and His Musical Klowns. This famous head-liner carries a company of twelve—ten members of the band, and the charming Eleanor Brooks and Arline Langan, famous Columbia Record artists.

Ted Lewis—"The High-Hatted Tragedian of Song"—is one of the most popular musical figures in America. He and his orchestra have been starred in many musical comedies and swagger night clubs in New York and London.

Another feature act on the Keith bill is a sister turn—Helen and Agnes Harrington in "A Garden of Song", with special songs by Mann Holiner and Alberta Nichols.

From Europe comes George Dormonde and Company, another featured act on the bill at the new playhouse. This act, long popular in Europe, is gymnastic pantomime, rendered in a novel manner. Mr. Dormonde and his company are also known as motion picture actors, having appeared in "Variety" the famous movie made in Germany, and many other films.

The de luxe photoplay is "Take Me Home" with Bebe Daniels, a first-run Paramount release, directed by Marshall Neilan.

Pathe News, "The World Before Your Eyes"; organ novelty, with Earl Weidner at the organ; and short subjects, complete the week's offering.

WOMEN'S CHOIR SINGS

Concert at Shawsheen Village Woman's Club Pleases Audience—Lecture Given by Charles C. Keith

The meeting of the Shawsheen Woman's Club Monday night under the auspices of the Community Service committee was a great success. The musical part of the program was given by a women's chorus and their singing led to an enthusiastic demand for the formation of the chorus as a permanent glee club.

A lecture was given by Charles C. Keith on "Power, Passion and Poise," and was extremely interesting and instructive.

The chorus was given a very cordial reception and the three numbers "Sweet and Low", "Who Is Sylvia?", and "In the Time of Roses" showed there is abundance of musical talent in the club. Mrs. Frederick C. Smith directed and the performance showed faithful work in rehearsing. Miss Arthur Rohrer was accompanist.

The hostesses were:

Mrs. Charles Sawyer, chairman; Mrs. William Scanlon, Mrs. Emil Schulze, Mrs. Ferdinand Schwarz, Mrs. Erving Shaw, Mrs. Mary Shaw, Mrs. Henry J. Simmers, Mrs. Frederick C. Smith, Miss Roxie Smith, Mrs. Arthur Steinert, Mrs. Clinton H. Stevens, Mrs. Nathaniel Stowers, Mrs. Abbie Stubbs, Mrs. Fred Temple, Mrs. Kirke G. Temple and Mrs. William Thompson.

Red Cross Membership Is Sound Investment, Business Leader Says

"We believe that individual membership in the American Red Cross is a sound investment, yielding the investor tremendous returns in personal satisfaction," is the statement of William Butterworth, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in endorsing the twelfth annual roll call of the American Red Cross, Nov. 11-29. Mr. Butterworth's statement follows:

"The men engaged in carrying forward the business an industry of this nation are quick to respond, and respond generously, when human suffering calls for their assistance. They welcome the existence of an organization authorized by international treaty and congressional charter to act as their agency, and the agency of all the people, in providing relief in disaster and promoting their beneficial services to humanity. The nation's business men take particular pleasure in supporting The American National Red Cross because it has applied sound and efficient business technique and administrative methods without sacrifice of sympathy and understanding in the prevention and mitigation of human suffering.

"The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, as representative of the nation's business, has such confidence in the American Red Cross that it calls upon its member organizations to contribute to relief in disaster only upon Red Cross assurance that an appeal is necessary.

"We believe that individual membership in the American Red Cross is a sound investment, yielding the investor tremendous returns in personal satisfaction. The Red Cross is seeking to increase its membership to five million; the opportunity to join its ranks is presented by the Red Cross Chapters throughout the nation from November 11 to 29. It is good to be a link in this great chain of service reaching around the world."

(Signed)
WILLIAM BUTTERWORTH,
President
The Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

GOAL OF RED CROSS ANNUAL ROLL CALL 5,000,000 MEMBERS

Disaster Relief and Work for Veterans Cause Heavy Drain on Resources.

In order to enable the American Red Cross to carry on its broad activities, ranging from service to the world war veteran to instant response in time of disaster, a membership of 5,000,000 should be enrolled, and in this year of 1928-1929 that is the goal set for the twelfth annual roll call, to be held from November 11 to 29, Armistice to Thanksgiving Day.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross at Washington, in calling upon the nation for 5,000,000 adult members, directs attention to the great expenditures required of the Red Cross for disaster and veteran relief work, and for its many other activities devoted to health preservation and improvement and to cutting down the number of accidental deaths, through life saving and first aid courses.

"The Red Cross should at all times have a large reserve fund," Judge Payne stated, "because when disaster strikes, and this organization is called into instant action, there is no time to stop and raise funds. Dollars may mean lives, so we should have at all times a good reserve. We have been forced each year to draw upon our reserves, and we find that the demands are increasing annually."

Judge Payne pointed out that in the fiscal year of 1927-28, the Red Cross had extended aid in 66 major catastrophes in the United States and its insular possessions, and in 22 nations abroad. This does not include the West Indies hurricane disaster in Porto Rico and Florida, which occurred after the close of the Red Cross fiscal year, June 30, 1928.

The Red Cross expenditures for disaster in that period were $16,544,258.87, of which approximately $13,000,000 was expended in the Mississippi Valley for the flood relief work, which came from a fund contributed by the public. More than $1,000,000 was expended in the St. Louis tornado damage, and more than $1,000,000 in New England. In both cases public relief funds were raised, although in New England the Red Cross contributed in excess of $500,000 from its own funds for the relief work. In the majority of the other 66 disasters, and in all of the 22 foreign catastrophes in which the Red Cross extended aid, the money came from its own resources.

The largest item in the annual budget of the Red Cross is for its veteran relief and work for disabled ex-service and service men, upon which it expended in this year $1,169,795.

Every man and woman is asked by Judge Payne to join the Red Cross during the roll call period, to aid in these humanitarian enterprises.

Ten years after the Armistice, the American Red Cross still carries on for the world war veteran, providing comfort and entertainment for him in hospital, aiding his family where necessary, preparing and following through his claims for insurance, compensation or disability.

America holds the Red Cross emblem sacred because it represents a universal helpfulness—a service to all citizens—without regard to race, color or creed.

Fifty nations fly the Red Cross flag For all it carries the symbolic meaning of help in time of distress; of health preservation; disease prevention, and international co-operation in humane effort, which recognizes no frontier, no difference in language but only merciful help for all men.

Dance Tonight at Crystal Ballroom

The Jersey Jicc-Jaccs, fresh from further triumphs in New England ballrooms, return to night to the Crystal ballroom to be hosts to throngs of Greater Lawrence dance enthusiasts over the week-end. This splendid musical organization has entertained banner crowds at Shawsheen Village since the opening of the fall and winter season nearly a month ago. In fact, Crystal appears to be well on the way to the establishment of a new record for attendance at this popular ballroom, which stands alone in the front rank of Greater Lawrence dance halls.

It has been the policy of the Balmoral Associates to provide the patrons of its ballrooms with nothing but the best in music and entertainment. It was the policy which made Roseland the success it was during the summer season. Admission dancing prevails at Crystal, with no additional charge for checking. Everything has been done to make this ballroom homelike in every way and the response in the way of attendance has proved conclusively that the Balmoral Associates have sensed just what Greater Lawrence dance lovers desire

South Church C. E. Notes

The South church Christian Endeavor Society met Sunday evening in the vestry with Miss Madeline Kimball as leader. The subject for discussion was "In What Ways Do We Waste Our Time?"

A debate took place on, "Resolved: That we get more benefit out of attending Christian Endeavor than out of Sunday movies." Edward Weeks took the negative and Pamelia Proctor the affirmative after which everybody took part in the rebuttal. The leader for next Sunday is Robert Abercrombie and his subject is "What is being done for and against world peace."
